

2018/19

FISHERIES INTERNATIONAL STUDY BURSARY PROGRAMME

Personal Development through International Study

Fisheries Innovation Scotland (FIS) is once again advertising its International Study Bursary Programme, designed to help the career development of those working in or with the commercial fishing industry. Awards will be made to winning applicants who have identified a specific short international study trip they believe will benefit their career and their ability to contribute to the sector in Scotland. The overarching theme of the study visit will be Fisheries Innovation and Sustainability.

Anyone involved in any aspect of fisheries (catching, processing, supply chain, NGO, academia and so on) can apply – there is no gender or other bias.

Image above: Hannah Fennell, winner of the 2017 International Study Bursary competition.

Hannah went to Denmark, and achieved a great deal. See her BASFC2018 interview here:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bN0bP3p3yys&feature=youtu.be>

You tell us where
you want to go,
who you want to
meet – and why it will be good for your career

Bring fresh new ideas back to Scotland;
enhance your international network

Share your experience at the Scottish Fishing
Conference 2020
in St Andrews

Applications by 31st October 2018

Read more about the International Bursary on our website:

<http://www.fiscot.org>

